

The impact of this event was not just felt by the teen, but also by us, the leaders. First some background information; our church is relatively small, so we are volunteers who work part-time and attend college full-time. With our lives being as busy and stressful as they are, we were really thinking of throwing in the towel. The morning of the event we had been discussing how we could plan our departure around scheduled events and allowing enough time to find a replacement. But as the day went on God truly moved in our hearts too, and we have just hit a bump in the road and are not going anywhere.

Worldview Warriors was a great blessing to our youth, are a wonderful ministry to work with, and most importantly 100% God focused. When planning out the event they maintained contact with us, occasionally checking in to see if we need help with anything. We would whole-heartedly recommend hosting an event, allowing God to work in your midst as he has in ours.

With Love,
